

Ontario News - Outdoor Burning Restricted In Areas of Northeastern Ontario:

May 20, 2010

McGuinty Government Implements Restricted Fire Zone

A Restricted Fire Zone has been declared in Northeastern Ontario north of the French River to reduce the risk of human-caused wildfires.

Effective 12:01 a.m. on Thursday, May 20, 2010, a Restricted Fire Zone is in place and will remain in effect until conditions improve. The fire hazard is high to extreme and is expected to increase into the foreseeable future. The long-term weather forecast offers no relief in the form of significant precipitation.

Under the Restricted Fire Zone, all burning permits are suspended and all open fires are prohibited. Campfires may be allowed at some organized campgrounds or parks that use approved fire pits and meet certain other criteria. Campers should check with the owners or operators first. Within the Restricted Fire Zone area, people can still use portable gas stoves for cooking and warmth but the public is asked to exercise extreme caution. Ministry of Natural Resources fire staff and conservation officers will strictly enforce the restrictions on open burning.

Quick Facts

- Currently, there are about 26 active fires in Ontario and a season total of over 330 forest fires to date.
- 310-FIRE (3473) is northern Ontario's new toll free forest fire reporting number.
